

Process for improving the storage stability of composite-particle dispersions

Abstract

- 5 The invention provides a process for improving the storage stability of aqueous composite-particle dispersions and of aqueous formulations comprising them.